Animals should not be kept in cages because it is very cruel. They don’t have enough space to exercise, they don’t learn life skills, therefore there are bad consequences and they will be very unhappy.

If animals are kept in cages they will not have enough space to exercise. This is cruel because they cannot stay fit which will lead to them being so unhealthy and sick. Space is a big issue! It can lead to animals dying. We must stop animals being kept in cages!

If animals are kept in cages they will not learn any life skills. Animals are usually hand-fed when they’re in cages. If they are let out into the wild, what will they do? There is no one to feed them. They will not know how to hunt for food so then they will starve and die. They also will not know how to make friends. For example, if a tiger was let out into the wild, it will be left out of groups and will get attacked.

It is cruel to keep animals in cages! They will be very unhappy! They don’t have any company or anything to keep them occupied. Let’s say an elephant is in a circus. They are kept in a cage all the time except for when they are performing. When they are stuck in the cage they will be lonely, then they won’t ever listen to the trainer. The elephant will certainly go crazy on stage and attack humans. It all comes back to one main point. Animals should not be kept in cages. It is so cruel!

In conclusion, animals must not be kept in cages as it can lead to many, many bad things. IT MUST BE STOPPED NOW! Unless you want to see animals go extinct…

- Shay